Dramatic Episode.

The Senate chamber was the scene of a highly dramatic episode when Senator Benjamin Tillman of South Carolina challenged his colleague, Senator McLaughlin, to resign with him on the spot in order, to use his own language, that they might be allowed to "wash their dirty linen at home." Mr. McLaughlin did not take up the gauge.

The incident was the sequel of the very bitter controversy which arose between senators in South Carolina last spring.

Mr. McLaughlin arose to a question of personal privilege and proceeded to explain what he charged was a conspiracy to discredit him and it did not meet the approval of certain Democratic leaders.

He declared that he was being humiliated and, according to public prints, was to be excluded from the Democratic caucus because he had acted upon certain public issues in a way which he considered for the best interests of the country and of the people of his state.

He announced himself a believer in the old Democracy, and after denouncing the new Democracy leaders, who, he said, had brought destruction upon the party, declared that he could not be driven from his old allegiance into a party with which he did not care to affiliate.

Mr. Tillman reviewed the whole controversy, and Mr. Hoar took occasion to express the opinion that it was very doubtful whether both the South Carolina seats in the senate were now in reality vacant. He contended that when the resignations were offered last spring, to the governor they could not be withdrawn thereafter, having become immediately operative.

The climax came when Senator Tillman challenged Mr. McLaughlin to join him in preparing their joint resignations and handing them to the president of the senate. The episode was brought to an abrupt close by Senator Lodge moving an executive session.

Strange Bird Fights Farmer.

Elías Peabody, who lives in the northern part of Madison county had a terrible tussle the other night with either a strange visitor from the moon or James Whitcomb Riley's "Crack of Doom" bird which he turned loose in Madison county in 1867, when he was editor of the Anderson Democrat. Peabody was aroused from his dreams by something falling heavily upon his roof. The thump was followed by scurrying footsteps.

He jumped out of bed and grabbed his gun. In the moonlight he saw the strangest kind of a thing. He lowered his gun and went out to meet it. Though he cried "Shoo," as loud as he could, the thing came straight at him, and when it came into close range, Peabody grabbed it around the neck.

The visitor demonstrated in a second to Peabody's mind that it was not a member of the goose family, for according to the honest farmer, it threw a few kinks out of its neck and showed out both of its long legs landings Peabody's breast with such a force as to floor him. Then the bird gazed over him and his fowling piece, blinking at him with great, bright, wild eyes.

Peabody says he grabbed it again and caught it about the legs but it set its wings in motion and laid him out again. He was game however, and at last succeeded in getting it in a corn crib, where he locked it up until morning.

When Peabody inspected the bird in daylight, its legs were long and short, and its feet were not webbed. It had a yellow beak and large white eyes, while its feathers were snow white and very coarse. When he peeped through a crack, the bird was walking up and down the floor, turning his head in every direction. He opened the door, and let it go out but it showed no sign of flying away. It walked into a pool of water, but hustled out in surprise as if water was a new thing to it. It would bump against the side of the barn and into the fence, yet it is not blinded.

Visit to Goebel's Grave.

I strolled out to the Frankfort cemetery—one of the most beautiful spots on earth I ever believed—and stood by the grave of William Goebel, the kindliest spirit of them all, yesterday evening. There is no mark now to distinguish the little earth-mound where, after his stormy life and tragic death, he rests at last. Presently they will rear a marble shaft that will tower towards the sky and stand a mute, undying protest against the cruelty of man to man. But it will not bring him back. The unconquerable spirit has fled to the God who created it; the powerful brain, the dauntless heart, the poor temperament of clay, have moulded back to a mother earth kinder, more merciful, than his fellow-man. And the end of all the struggles of a life such as few mortals ever live is a hillock of clay, a handful of withered flowers—the darkness, the silence, the oblivion of the tomb. Oh, the infinite pity of it all! Better, thousand fold better, had democracy lost, and its great leader but died it still. There was but one William Goebel. Kentucky will never look upon his like again.—J. M. Richardson in The Glasgow Times.

Operations in Wayne.

The following is a summary of operations in the Wayne oil field as given by a correspondent to the Courier-Journal, and is doubtless correct or nearly so: Total number of wells drilled, sixty-two; total number of producing wells, twenty-eight; total number of dry wells, thirty-four; total number of producing wells worked out of flood, fourteen, present number of producing wells, eighteen; number of wells better than 100 barrels, four; total daily production, 700 barrels; average daily production a well, forty-one barrels. Note the average production, leaving out the four large wells at Sunnybrook, is about five barrels a well. The pay wells out of Sunnybrook are from some of six years old and are drilled only to first sand.

How to Cure Croup.

Dr. R. Gray, who lives near Amentia, Duches county, N. Y., says: "Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is the best medicine I have ever used. It is a fine children's remedy for croup and never fails to cure." When given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough has developed, it will prevent the attack. This should be borne in mind and a bottle of the Cough Remedy kept at hand ready for instant use as soon as these symptoms appear. For sale by M. Cravens.

Thoughts From Sermons.

"The great claim that Christ makes for himself is that he has come into the world as the source, and the only source, of spiritual life."—The Reverend J. P. Cannon.

"Man was created in God's image—not without consultation."—The Reverend John L. Brandt.

"We judge that he died that they who live should not live unto themselves, but unto him who died for them and rose again."—The Reverend C. R. Watson.

"Winter forces men to fight cold and hunger, or to overcome. Out of this battle are born courage and fortitude and foresight. We Americans are being taught the value of cold—human nature needs opposition. There is a physical as well as a spiritual opposition. Opposition is as necessary as food. It is the life of the soul."—The Reverend J. K. Brennan.

"Trials gave us Plymouth Rock, and it is the same spirit in the moral and physical world that forces us out of the places of ease and complacency and makes us attain unto the best."—The Reverend W. J. Williams.

"Of all titles, Christianity has rejected most to be called 'The religion of the poor.'"—The Reverend F. M. Kieley.

"Sometimes unexpected agonies come into our own hearts, when, though our work appears to be acceptable and successful, the worker is ignored and forgotten. This is what tests us."—The Reverend E. Duckworth.

"Smooth out the little imperfections which may be in the life, but it is a little thing so the rift in the robe, but it is the one destroys the fragrance that might fill a room; the other destroys a harmony that might thrill a soul."—The Reverend J. C. Hornig.

"No cause is so important as not to find men ready to endanger life for it."—The Reverend M. T. Haw.

"The result of every minister's study ought to be a systematized form of truth."—The Reverend F. W. Sneed.

Race for U. S. Senator.

Mr. J. M. Richardson, editor of the Glasgow Times, writes his paper as follows, from Frankfort:

There is one feature of the situation that should give heart-felt pleasure to every good citizen. Whatever happens, there will be no repetition of the riotous proceedings, the bloody tragedies, of the Blackstone-Hunter and Goebel-Taylor legislatures. No republican governor will call out a thousand militia to prevent the election of a United States Senator. There will be no ringing of riot alarms at the dead hour of night. The legislature will not be dispersed at the point of the bayonet or recalled for slaughter. There will be no more of dark conspiracy or information assassination. Bradley is retired to private life. Taylor is usually writhing on the bed he made for himself in Indiana. The republican party has been tried, found utterly wanting and turned out of the power it could only use to abuse. Democracy will at least conduct itself decently, and republicanism is powerless. There will be rows, but they will all be in the democratic family and, like the provincial fellow fight, only result in more democrats. There will be a royal battle—but it will be of brain and political strategy. There will be putting of intellect, and sharpening of wits and a fierce struggle for a prize the highest that can come to a Kentuckian honored by Kentuckians—but through it all will shine the sun of good-humor, and it will all be between democrats. "Tis republicans are not in it—thank God!"

The Gradyville High School will open first Monday in January. Primaries, from $1.50. Intermediate course $2.00. Teachers' course $2.50. Good board can be obtained for $150 for full week, from Monday until Friday 10.00. Address John W. Flowers, Principal, Bliss, Ky.

Three Months Have Passed.

Just three months ago this morning President McKinley died. Just three months ago today, as Buffalo, Mr. Roosevelt took the oath of office as President and said:

"In this hour of deep national bereavement I wish to state that it shall be my aim to continue as fully unbroken the policy of President McKinley for the peace and prosperity and honor of our beloved country."

And the whole country stood relieved and grateful for the announcement that the dead President's policy would be the new President's chart.

Yet now that three months have passed since that pledge was solemnly given and so loudly acclaimed by the nation that it had all the moral effect of a covenant, let us which the President and the people entered together, what do we see?

Mr. Roosevelt's first message to Congress is an absolute rejection of the main feature of Mr. McKinley's policy as he outlined it in his very able speech at the Buffalo Exposition, and which proved to be his farewell message to the country. That speech was received with approbation that was not limited by party lines, but was national in its character. Its keynote was reciprocity. Its gist was contained in these memorable words:

"The period of exclusiveness is past. The expansion of our trade and commerce is the pressing problem. Commercial wars are unprofitable. A policy of good will and friendly relations will prevent reprisals. Reciprocity treaties are in harmony with the spirit of the times; measures of retaliation are not."

In President Roosevelt's message there is nothing like that. He has practically repudiated it all—and the reciprocity treaties are dead.

Nor is this the only, though it is the main abandonment of Mr. McKinley's policy. There is a new order of Federal appointments in the South. It may be good, but it is not the "absolutely unbroken" policy of McKinley. There is to be a new Collector of the Port of New York, the first Federal office outside of Washington—and he is not to be Mr. Bidwell, whom Mr. McKinley had decided to reappoint. And the chief counsel and senatorial representative of President Roosevelt is not Mr. Hanna.

In five, three months after the new President's promise to "continue absolutely unbroken," Mr. McKinley's policy, nothing material of that policy remains unchanged except that the war in the Philippines goes on and the tariff-sheltered trusts, the monopolies, the subsidy hunters and all the capitalistic combinations that thrive by Government privileges and favors continue to enjoy the Administration's first consideration and care.—New York World.

Owing to the great quantity of floating ice in the Mississippi river steamers plying between Memphis and St. Louis have been compelled to tie up.

Fenians are accused of placing an infernal machine in the Liverpool Exchange building, which exploded, wrecking the building and causing a fire.

The blizzard in the Westland Northwest has spent its force. The damage is not so great as first reported.

A fire at Salem, W. Va., destroyed fifty-six buildings. The loss is estimated at $300,000, with little insurance.

"Rattlesnakes are grateful if you gain their affections," says a correspondent of the Corsicana, Texas, News. "My brother, Jim, found a six-foot rattler near town caught under a boulder, and instead of using his advantage he sympathetically rubbed the snake which became a pet and followed Jim about and guarded him as watchfully as dog. One night he was awakened and missing the snake from its usual place at the foot of the bed, he knew something was wrong. He got up and lighted a match to investigate and found a burlap in the next room in the coils of the snake, which had its tail out the window rattling for a policeman."

Mrs. Mary Hays was drowned in a boat on the river. The male who was riding became unmanageable and got into deep water, and she was washed off.

CHAS. S. HARRIS, Editor.
A Democratic newspaper devoted to the interests of the city of Louisville and the people of Adam and adjacent counties.

Entered as Second-Class Matter, October 3, 1879, under Post Office No. 100, at Louisville, Ky., under Act of October 3, 1879, authorized by Act of October 3, 1879, approved October 3, 1879.

By order of Commissioner Yerkes the pay of storekeepers gaugers must not exceed three dollars per day.

Postmaster General Smith has resigned and Henry C. Payne has been appointed in his stead.
There is an intimation that other resignations will follow.

A sensational story comes from the East that the President was assaulted by a footpad a few days ago. The President knocked the man down and went on his way rejoicing.

The Kentucky Legislature will meet Tuesday, January 7. The body will be largely Democratic.
United States Senator will be elected during the Session, and the State re-districted.

Reuben Quinn, who murdered Mr. John Crum, paid the penalty on the gallows at Danville last Friday. Quinn did not weaken until he heard the mechanics building the death-trap.

Gov. Bradley has raised a howl in the Republican ranks, and his forces are now arranging to control the patronage of the State.
Bradley is making the effort of his life to oust Yerkes, and in an open letter calls his political enemies "little curs."

Hon. Milton J. Durham, who used to remove his coat and collar while speaking for Democratic principles, and who was honored by his then party a number of times, is now filling the position of Deputy Collector in the Lexington district. Mr. Durham is now about eighty years old, and before he goes hence Hon. J. Proctor Knecht is anxious for him to meet and "tell Andy Higgins howdy."

The Webster county grand jury has returned indictments against James D. Wood, Christopher C.
Barney and W. B. Kissinger, officers of the United Mine Workers, charging them with being accessories before the fact to willful murder. The indictments are based on the fight at Providence mines and are believed to have been procured by reason of papers found on the body of a union miner who was killed during the attack on the mines.

Adj. Gen. Murray has notified the Kentucky soldiers of the three State Guard regiments which enlisted in the Spanish-American War that they are entitled to pay at the State Guard rate until they were mustered into Federal service. Officers of the regiments promptly, as they must be filed at the War Department by January 1, and must be in Adj. Gen. Murray's hands by December 20.

For a generation past the newspapers and pulpits have seldom lost an opportunity to moralize upon Kentucky as the "dark and bloody ground," the single state in the Union where passion never cools, and where public law is always subordinate to the personal code. To discover the facts concerning Kentucky feuds, their causes and results, the editor of Leslie's Monthly sent Mr. E. Carl Littor a careful and accurate observer, on a journey through the most notorious districts of the State. Mr. Littor discarded all bias and relied solely upon first hand information. The story of all he saw and heard, which is set forth in Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly for January, is of peculiar interest to every Kentuckian.

A HAND SHAKE

For the last few weeks there has appeared in the Columbia Advertiser and the Adam County News a heated discussion on the action of the School Board in adopting school books. It appeared to me, as one of the board, that the editor of the News was attempting to cast undue reflection on the Board. This led me, together with the other members of the Board, to charge the editor of the News with malicious lying.
The editor of the News has several times stated that he did not mean to cast any reflection on the honor of the Board. I now respectfully withdraw the personal attack made upon him and consider him a gentleman of honor. This is made that the readers, of the two papers, may understand that this unpleasant controversy is, so far as I am concerned, at an end.

W. D. JONES.

The above retraction and apology made by Mr. W. D. Jones explains itself. Most any person can make charges, but it takes a true man to retract when convinced of doing wrong. I accept his statement as full and complete compensation and in this action he has done all that any true gentleman could do. Now, as before our unpleasant discussion, I am his friend. I did not at any time mean to cast any undue reflection on the County Board.

C. S. HARRIS.

Congressman Gaines, of Tennessee is making an effort for the improvement of the Cumberland river and he has invited the Rivers and Harbors Committee to visit that section in January, and several of the members have signified an intention to make the trip. Mr. Gaines is not indifferent to the great importance of improving the Cumberland. He realizes the incalculable worth to his district of making this river navigable, and his time, energy and talents are being used to accomplish this purpose. Should he be successful the good will not extend to this State and should not without a demand of the people of the country affected. The improvement of this water course to southern Kentucky, would be of inestimable worth and Congressman Boring should make a hard and persistent effort to bring about its improvement. He should go to work now, make this matter the height of his ambition, join the Tennessee Commission in its efforts and bring about results. It would be an easy matter to show the importance of the improvements needed, and if our Congressman will not enter into this work with a determination to win, the people of this district should enter a vigorous protest.
Mr. Boring has the opportunity to accomplish the best work ever done for this district. We trust that he will not be slow to recognize the value of such an improvement, that he will be able to see the star such a result would add to his political crown, and that his love for his district and a desire to rise higher in the appreciation of his constituents will be an irresistible force and bring an effort sufficient to secure the improvement.

The Indianapolis State Sentinel, speaking from age and experience, says: "It is not surprising that members of Congress should hesitate about accepting Andrew Carnegie's proposed $10,000,000 university donation, on learning that it was not to be in money, but only a trust donation of United States steel stock, worth at present an estimated amount of $500,000,000 annually.
This would make the national government a stockholder in a trust that receives immense favors from the government. Possibly that should not stagger a congressman who votes for such favors, but perhaps it brings the wrong into a little clearer light."

The bill providing for a temporary tariff against the Philippines was passed by the House Wednesday by a vote of 103 to 123. Five Republicans opposed the bill. Three Democrats voted for it and two Democrats voted against it. The bill imposes the Dingley tariff and also a tonnage tax. A motion to recommit and reduce the revenue and customs laws of the United States to a basis and extended to the Philippines was defeated by the full Republican vote and the votes of three Louisiana Democrats.

Rear Admiral Schley last Wednesday filed his objections to the majority opinion of the Court of Liquors and Secretary Long. He also asks that his counsel be permitted to make oral argument to the Secretary against the protest to be filed by Rear Admiral Samp-son's attorneys against the claim in the dissenting opinion of Admiral Dewey in which the Admiral says the glory of the Santiago sea-battle belonged to Schley and the men under him.

Wayne Damon, of Catlettsburg, Ky., knows how to use a revolver.
He is only eighteen years of age and was in a saloon at Davy, a small mining town in West Virginia.
About a dozen negroes marched to the saloon and ordered the white patrons to vacate. All left but Damon who drew his revolver and killed three of the negroes. The others made their escape.

The jury in the Hanlon case seems to be hopeless hung as to the degree of punishment. Hanlon was a Louisville policeman and he was being tried for assassinating a fellow officer. It is said that about one-half of the jury favors the death penalty, the other half life imprisonment. Late at night was given a life sentence.

The Schley case is settled so far as the Navy Department is concerned. Secretary Long regards Dewey's decision and acts with the majority of the Court.
Long's action is branded by the Schley's attorneys as "arbitrary and tyrannical." The whole proceedings, from start to finish, was nonsensical foolishness.

Under the present management of the penitentiary at Frankfort the institution has become self-sustaining. The report of the Commissioners show that they have been more interested in cutting down the expenses of the State than in their own salaries.

Senator Depew is now getting a little unconcerned. Says now that he does not know when he will get married. Just any old time when it suits the intended bride's convenience.

Marriage by telegraph ought to become a popular fad this kind of weather. The wires are all in a contracting condition.

wood closed Sunday night with a church much revived and a number of conversions.

Saved At Grave's Brink.

"I know I would long ago have been in my grave," writes Mrs. S. H. Newson, of Decatur, Ala. "If it had not been for Electric Bitters. For three years I suffered untold agony from the

RED BANK.

The health of this community is very good.

A storm passed through a few nights ago and topped several barns and destroyed a lot of timber. It was about one mile wide.

Miss Tommie Miller, of Campbellville, is visiting her sister, Mrs. W. O.
Smith. W. O. Smith shipped on the Dudley a fine lot of handles.

A revival meeting closed at Poplar Grove, conducted by Rev. Charlie Payne with about 30 additions.

We believe there will be several weddings here soon.

The Pride of Heroes.

Many soldiers in the last war wrote to say that for Scratches, Bruises, Cuts, Wounds, Corns, Sore Feet and Still Joints, Bucklen's Arnica Salve is the best in the world. Same for Burns, Scalds, Boils, Ulcers, Skin Eruptions and Piles. It cures or cures. Only
